Sewer Service Area Is Revamped in Plan Passed by Committee

An ad hoc committee formed last week by the Regional Planning Board recommended Monday night to Township Committee that 302 acres of land belonging to the Institute for Advanced Study not be deleted from the Princeton sewer service area. This change was incorporated in an amendment unanimously passed by Committee.

Many Board members had also expressed concern that property owners who would be affected by the plan had not been notified of the changes it outlined.

Prior to Township Committee's vote to amend the plan, Mayor Kate Litvack pointed out that the matter should receive a full public discussion before the Planning Board. "This can be joined with the Master Plan," she said. "It is a major zoning board decision.

The plan, entitled "The 208 Water Quality Management Plan Amendment — Report to Borough Council and Township Committee," defines the areas where sewers may be extended and where they may not. According to professional planner Duggan Kimball, the Master Plan Committee, in preparing the report, followed County guidelines requiring that there be no net increase in the sewer service area. The plan simply redistributes sewer availability among undeveloped areas.

Private lands totalling 352 acres are deleted from the sewer service area in the report. They include acreage in the northwest Township on the ridge, in the southwest Township and along River Road.

Most of the 635 acres of private lands added to the sewer service area are needed for the Township's affordable housing plan. These include White Farm, Ettl Farm, Princeton Day School-Cadle

Michael Tomalin to Run For Township Committee

Michael Tomalin, a three-term member of the Princeton Regional School Board, will be the Republican candidate for Township Committee in November. He replaces Carol Wojciechowicz, who announced in early July that she would not seek re-election.

Mr. Tomalin's Democratic opponent for the single seat available this year on Township Committee is Leonard Godfrey, associate director of patent management at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

If elected, Mr. Tomalin would not have to resign from the School Board until late December. Now serving the third and final year of his term, the Princeton Bank vice president said he had not anticipated running for a fourth term.

In tapping Mr. Tomalin for the ticket, Township Republicans were following a path familiar to them. Twice in recent years, the Republicans have selected

275 Total of Affordable Housing Units Questioned By Judge Serpentelli in First Compliance Hearing

There were no final rulings on the issues raised in the Mt. Laurel compliance hearing before Judge Eugene Serpentelli at the Ocean County courthouse in Toms River on Tuesday. The hearing will be continued in Judge Serpentelli's courtroom on Wednesday, September 14. The judge will address both the Township's affordable Housing Program and the settlement agreement between the Township and Calton Homes concerning White Farm.

Only two witnesses testified during the day-long hearing. The court-appointed "master," Philip Caton, an architect and planner from Trenton, testified in the morning about his review of the Township's affordable housing plan. Township consultant Alan Mallach, the planner who drew up the formal affordable housing plan for the Township, testified in the afternoon.

Judge Serpentelli's initial criticism focused not on the plan but on the method of determining the Township's fair share number of 275 affordable housing units. He questioned the 92 unit credit for filtering that was used in calculating the fair share number.

Filtering is part of the Council on Affordable Housing (COAH) methodology for determing the fair share for each community in a region. It is based on the theory that as new nonsubsidized housing is built, it will free up the existing affordable housing stock as residents move up to new housing. Credits can also be yielded through conversion, spontaneous and subsidized rehabilitation.

The Judge didn't see how this process could be applied to Princeton with its extremely expensive housing stock.

Both Mr. Caton and Mr. Mallach defended the use of filtering in determining the fair share number. "No fair share methodology will yield a fair and reasonable number in all of the cases to which it is applied," said Mr. Mallach. "If it achieves an outcome that is a fair one it should be considered a fair methodology."

According to the COAH methodology for calculating the Township's fair share number, 275 new affordable housing units will have to be

John-Witherspoon Residents Demand Action On Drug, Loitering Problems in Neighborhood

A composed but determined group of some 20 John-Witherspoon area residents came to Borough Council last week to ask for immediate relief from the problems afflicting their neighborhood. These include drug sales and consumption, alcohol consumption, and public loitering. They were especially concerned about the intersection ot John and Clay streets, where 240 John Street has become what one resident called "the nerve center of the problem."

Joyce Fitch, a 12-year resident of 238 John Street, presented a petition with 123 signatures to Council. The petition asked for immediate help with the problems plaguing the neighborhood.

Ms. Fitch described the John-Clay-Lytle area as one where crack vials are found by children, where young adults and minors smoke marijuana, and where minors are seen drinking alcohol on the steps of 240 John Street. Referring to a major drug raid by Borough police about five months ago, in which some four residents of 240 John were arrested, Ms. Fitch said, "nothing has changed."

She said that she has had to sweep broken glass from near her home in order to park her car. "People come from other streets and congregate," she said. "Sometimes they obstruct traffic, and if they are asked to move, they get abusive."

provided in the next six years. Mr. Mallach and Mr. Caton justified this number by comparing the high percentage of new housing that will be affordable in the Township to statewide figures. While approximately 25 percent of the new housing in the Township will be affordable, statewide the number hovers between 10 and 15 percent.

Township committeeman Tom Poole commented during the morning break that "we came here under the assumption that he would accept the COAH number because it provides a more uniform approach to determining fair share."

While Farm. Judge Serpentelli indicated some acceptance of the plans for White Farm within the affordable housing program. "I have sympathy with those who feel the property shouldn't be developed for historic reasons," he said. "However, the court is almost powerless to exclude it, especially since the Township Committee and Planning Board are asking to include it."

The Judge said that as a former history major he appreciated the historical objections. "Every inch of lost history is a loss to all of us," he commented. He explained that he had toured the White Farm site on two Saturdays and driven around neighboring areas.

Wendy Mager, attorney for Friends of Princeton Open Space, an organization acting as a "friend of the court" at the hearing, raised a number of questions about the appropriateness of developing an area that is currently listed on

Speed Limit on Terhune Township Meeting Topic

Some ten residents of Terhune Road came to the Monday night Township Committee meeting to participate in the second public discussion of their request for a 25 mph speed limit on the road. The present speed limit is 30 mph on the section from Route 206 to North Harrison Street, and 35 mph from Harrison to Snowden Lane.

Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer said there were two alternatives for changing the speed limit on the section of Terhune that runs from North Harrison to Snowden. It could be done by ordinance, to 30 mph, or the residential part of this section could be "deordinanced." This would trigger an automatic 25 mph speed limit. However, he said it would also necessitate having the Township engineer appear in court to testify that the roadway meets the State residence criteria.

Several residents spoke in favor of the 25 mph limit, and there was a general feeling that, whatever the limit, it should be the same for the entire stretch of Terhune.

Residents' requests for a crosswalk were responded to by Township Engineer Robert Kiser, who said that he recommended a crosswalk be placed at Van Dyke and Meadowbrook. Signs would signal the presence of the walk.

Committeeman Tom Poole said the speed limit would be reduced, "but the question is, to what?" Mayor Kate Litvack said she would like to do something before the opening of school.

The Mayor said the matter would be taken up again publicly at the Monday meeting of Township Committee, when Mr. Kiser will have completed several additional studies he is making of the area.

In other business, Township Committee approved an ordinance reducing the speed limit on Grover Avenue from 30 to 25 mph. This was done because children will soon be walking down Grover on their way to Littlebrook School, open again after a five-year hiatus.

Committee declined to add any hazardous route busing, but noted that crossing guards will be placed in front of Littlebrook, at the Littlebrook driveway, at Snowden and Abernathy, Franklin and Snowden, and Terhune and Grover.

In addition, Grover, which has no sidewalk, will be marked its full length with crossed lines.

Before the conclusion of the meeting, Township Committee unanimously passed a resolution honoring the late James Sayen, an environmentalist and Planning Board member who died two weekends ago. All members agreed with Mr. Poole, who said, "He will really be missed."

INTERIM COMMUNITY PARK PRINCIPAL Elizabeth (Betty) Tallman works on details of the transition with Arthur Firestone, who resigned as the school's principal to join the Montgomery system.

TOPICS Of the Town

Interim Principal Named By Board of Education

Elizabeth Tallman, a fifth-grade teacher at John Witherspoon Middle School for the past year, has been named interim principal at Community Park School. She is currently working out the transition period with outgoing principal Arthur Firestone. Mr. Firestone's last day at Community Park will be Tuesday.

Mrs. Tallman has taught for 15 years, including a year at Stuart Country Day School and two years at Montgomery High School. She was selected by the Regional School Board from nine applicants, all from within the system. The selection process involved interviews by staff, administration, and parents. The schools have begun advertising for a permanent principal for Community Park.

Mrs. Tallman, a Hopewell resident, serves on the Hopewell Borough Planning Board and is a former president of the Hopewell PTO. Her two children are in the second and eighth grades at Chapin School.

She said she is looking forward to getting things pulled together before the first day of school, and is particularly interested in working on an integrated curriculum concept in the lower grades.

She participated this summer in a Partners in Education program, funded by the Mellon Foundation, where she worked on integrated curriculum for the fifth grade. This is a long-range goal of the Princeton system, she says, and one she feels is readily adaptable to any grade level.

As an example of how to integrate curriculum in the lower grades, Mrs. Tallman said that when third-grade students study Princeton, they might also read the book Myrtle the Turtle by Hopewell author Keith Roberts, which is set in Princeton.

They would learn about Princeton, read the book, and "if he would do it, we would have the author come in to talk to the students," said Mrs. Tallman.

The Princeton Regional School Board also filled a new position — director of planning and technology — with the appointment of Len Scrogan, a former district coordinator for computer education with the Albuquerque (N.M.) public schools.

Mr. Scrogan is co-founder and chairperson of the Rocky Mountain Association of Instructional Technology Specialists, a professional organization of computer specialists in education.

Mrs. Tallman and Mr. Scrogan will each receive an annual salary of $59,531.

Board Begins Review Of Plans for Ettl Farm

The Regional Planning Board did not have time at its August 2 meeting to fully review or vote on a preliminary site plan and final phase 1 subdivision and site plan for a development of million dollar homes on 117 sites at the Ettl Farm. Discussion of the application will continue at the September 7 Planning Board meeting.

The developer, Sanford Nallit, and several members of his landscape and architectural team began to present plans before the meeting was ended at the Board's mandatory 11 p.m. closing time. The property is bordered by Rosedale and Province Line Roads and Stony Brook. It is districted as part of the Township's affordable housing program and mandatory clustering insures that 50 percent of the 118-acre tract must be open space. Rather than building affordable housing on the property, the developer will be contributing $1.8 million to the Township affordable housing fund.

The plans presented for approval call for a band of open space along Rosedale Road at the entrance to the development and a 40-acre section of open space along Stony Brook. These two sections on opposite sides of the development would be linked by a 150- to 400-foot wide section of open space. Additional small undeveloped areas are scattered throughout the development.

"The design respects its edges," said landscape designer Robert Mulcahy of the SWA Group of Boston. He added that the larger one-acre lots are on the outside perimeter near existing homes and smaller lots are on the inside of the property.

"It is primarily additive," he continued. "Trees over 10 inches in diameter have been marked to stay on the property."

He said that the open space design creates a "large tree and lawn character" for the area that is now meadow. This is to be maintained by a homeowners' association.

Architectural renderings of some of the homes planned for Ettl farm revealed large two-story structures described as "classical" in style. The developer has requested a variance from the zoned 30-foot building height in order to accommodate high, steeply pitched roofs included in some of the designs.

"By going to 43 feet, it enables us to vary the architecture from Colonial to Tudor and French Norman, which traditionally have higher pitched roofs," said Mr. Nallit's staff architect Charles Acquavella.

The houses would range in size from 4,000 to 5,000 square feet and would be built on lots ranging in size from ½ to one acre. The houses closest to Rosedale Road would be built in the first phase of construction.

Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund was critical of the plan's placement of most of the open space at the back of the property. She was concerned about losing the current beautiful view from the road to a landscape of large houses on small lots. "Most of us have the feeling that we're building too huge a house for the lot in the name of open space that is for somebody — we don't know who."

The Board's professional planner, Duggan Kimball, defended the placement of the open space, describing the beauty of the steeply sloped area which, although private lands, has a network of walking paths that have seen considerable use. He said the accessibility of the property had to be resolved between the Township and the developer.

The developer did not have time to complete his presentation, and a discussion by the Board had to be postponed until the September meeting. Mr. Nallit emphasized the urgency of moving ahead with the project, saying that completion of all of the homes may take as long as 12 or 14 years and that he had already put $15 million into the project. "We're not going to sell a house in 1988," he said, "but we'd like to establish several models by the earliest possible time."

— Alison Connors

THE FIRST STEP in installing new water mains under Witherspoon Street took place early Tuesday morning, when construction crews began making cuts down the street. A three-foot trench will be dug, and then replaced with soft stones covered by asphalt. This will allow traffic to continue, and will permit the work to be done at night without the noise of a jackhammer. Borough businessman Ray Wadsworth has promised the crew a party at the Alchemist & Barrister if they complete the work by Labor Day.

New Board Members

Princeton Borough recently added several new representatives to the Planning Board. Michael Landau, a local architect and Princeton native, has replaced Aristedes Georgantas on the Board. The Rev. David Cousin, pastor of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church, is the alternate.

Merritt N. Cootes, a retired foreign service officer and a member of Friends of Princeton Open Space, has replaced Jim Sayen.

Leigh Ave. Man Charged With Strong Arm Robbery

A Leigh Avenue resident has been charged by Borough police with the strong arm robbery last week of a Lytle Street man.

Robin Lee Everett, 32, was later released after being issued a complaint summons by Det. John Reading, pending action by a Mercer County Grand Jury.

As related by Capt. Thomas Michaud, the 37-year-old victim was walking down Lytle Street last Wednesday evening when he was approached by Everett who demanded money. When he replied, "I don't have any," the victim was allegedly attacked by Everett, who punched him and threw him to the ground. After ripping the victim's wallet from his pants pocket, Everett ran off. The victim called police.

Following an investigation by Sgt. William Clark and Ptl. Lori Sannella, the initial officers at the scene, and by Det. Reading, police made an identification of the suspect. Capt. Michaud said that both lived in the same general area and that the victim had seen Everett before but did not know him by name.

Aware that police were looking for him, Everett turned himself in the following night.

Capt. Michaud reported that the victim's wallet contained no money but the wallet and some personal items inside were valued at $18. The victim, he said, suffered some pain during the attack but did not sustain any visible injuries.

Man Admits 1986 Assaults Of Two Princeton Women

Before a Trenton Superior Court Judge last week, a 37-year-old Trenton resident with a history of sex offenses pleaded guilty to assaulting two Princeton women in late 1986.

John D. Eutsey of Pennington Avenue admitted to Judge Charles Delehey that he attacked a woman in October, 1986, after dragging her between two houses off University Place and that he also assaulted a 21-year-old Princeton University student on Madison Street two months later while the victim was on her way to a New Year's Eve Party.

Until he is sentenced, Eutsey is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail in the Mercer County Detention Center. Judge Delehey did not set a sentencing date.

Eutsey also admitted in court to dragging a woman into a Trenton alley on June 25. As he was ripping off her clothes, the victim managed to break free and run up to a passing car.

His criminal record reveals that in 1975, Eutsey was sentenced to the Diagnostic and Treatment Center in Avenel, after he was convicted of assault with intent to rape a Mercer County woman. He was released in 1983.

In 1972, the then 21-year-old Eutsey was given an undesirable discharge from the United States Army, when he was convicted on one count of disobeying a direct order and two counts of being absent without leave, court records reveal.

The same year he was sentenced to six years in jail for tying up and raping a resident of Anchorage in Alaska. After raping the woman at knife point, Eutsey then used articles of the victim's clothing to bind her hands and feet together, according to a record of the crime.

Parked Car Is Target Of Theft and Vandalism

An unlocked, 1988 Yugo, parked early last week in the driveway of its Snowden Lane owner, was the target of vandals who also looted the car.

Police said the car was "barraged" with eggs and shaving cream inside and out. In addition, the windshield was soaped and profanities written all over the car in soap.

Stolen from the car were approximately 20 cassette tapes valued at $140, four hubcaps valued at $100 and an assortment of clothing of unknown value. Police said the owner could offer no explanation for the vandalism.

A resident of Haverford, Pa., attending a seminar here last week, told police that someone had used a brick to smash the right passenger-side window of her 1987 sedan while it was parked in the Speer Library lot on the campus of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

The thief then reached in and took a shopping bag containing clothing valued at $162, a small radio and books. Police said there was blood at the scene, indicating the suspect had probably cut himself on the broken glass.

A $50 car battery was stolen from the 1972 VW of a Borough resident while it was parked overnight during the weekend in the MacLean Street lot. The car's engine compartment was not locked, police said.

Two boy's BMX bicycles, both valued at $100 and both locked, were stolen during the weekend from the rear of a Maple Terrace house, and a blue, unlocked Schwinn bike was taken early last week from the front porch of a John Street home. It is valued at $125.

In the Township, an 11-year-old boy's black, 10-speed Fuji bicycle, worth $150, was stolen from a rack at the Community Park Pool, and a red and tan reclining lawn chair valued at $35 was taken last week from the front porch of a Birch Avenue home.

A clerk in Jordan's Gift Shop in the Princeton Shopping Center was the victim of a fast change flim-flam last week.

Police said a tall black male, about 40 years old, was going to purchase a kitchen knife and gave the clerk a $20 bill. Then he asked for the $20 back and gave the clerk a $10 and then said, "No, wait a minute..." When the confusion of the transaction was over the clerk had given $4 too much to the con artist, who ended up not buying anything.

Lake Carnegie Vandals Overturn a Sailboat

The sailboat of a Sturges Way resident was damaged Friday afternoon by vandals while it was anchored in Lake Carnegie near the boathouse dock off Princeton-Kingston Road.

The victim told police when he returned some 3½ hours later he found the boat flipped over on its side, the drain plug removed and the mast bent. Cost to repair the mast was estimated at $500.

Borough police report that the left side window of a 1979 Toyota, owned by a Princeton University employee, was broken while it was parked between 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the McCosh Infirmary lot on campus.

Police said there were no signs of any theft from inside the car.

and strike a parked station wagon on Witherspoon Street, setting off a multi-car accident. No one was injured.

The driver, Raphael Dolice, 19, of Helmetta, estimated he was traveling about 25 miles per hour when he swerved near MacLean Street and struck the rear of a 1974 station wagon owned by William H. Cherry of 24 Dempsey Avenue. The impact pushed the station wagon into a parking meter post and forward five feet into the rear of a parked 1988 Saab.

The Saab, in turn, was pushed 5½ feet forward into the rear of a 1985 Dodge Colt owned by Thomas J. Nesi of 14½ Chestnut Street. The Colt was then pushed into the rear of a 1988 Mazda owned by Forer Pharmacy, 160-162 Witherspoon.

Each of the first three parked cars sustained extensive front and rear end damage and all, together with the ambulance, were towed to Larini's Auto Service Center on Alexander Street. Mr. Cherry's car was judged a total loss. The damaged Saab is owned by Saab-Scania Financial Services of Buffalo, N.Y. Only the Mazda was able to drive away from the scene.

Gene Rickle, 20, one of two passengers in the front seat of the ambulance, confirmed the steering problem. Interviewed at the scene by the investigating officer, Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt, the Borough's traffic safety officer, Mr. Rickle said: "The steering was free and wandering. We have had problems with the ambulance before with the steering and brakes."

The driver had told Ptl. Lenhardt that the steering was feeling loose "and the front end would drift."

Ptl. Lenhardt did not issue any charges. "Thank heavens they were not on an emergency run," he said. He reported that police later examined the ambulance and determined that the steering was indeed defective.

Maple Street Resident Publishes Her First Novel, A Romantic Suspense Tale, 'The Masks of Rome'

Daughter of an Englishman and an American, born in Singapore but raised on an island in the Bay of Fundy, Caroline Llewellyn is now very much at home in Princeton. She is married to Princeton University Professor Ted Champlin, is the mother of two young sons, and has recently become launched on a career in writing that she sees as her life's work.

The 39-year-old Ms. Llewellyn's first novel, The Mosks of Rome, has just been published by Charles Scribner's Sons. A romantic suspense tale, set in ttaly, the book has brought her some splendid early reviews.

Publishers Weekly called The Masks of Rome a "compelling first novel," and said its author's "accomplished debut delivers on its promise of romantic suspense and plenty more."

"Clearly, Llewellyn is a writer to watch," wrote Kirkus Reviews, while Phyllis Whitney, the doyenne of romantic suspense, wrote, "Caroline Llewellyn tells an entrancing tale...I loved it."

ONLY FITTING: With her first novel set in Rome, it seems only appropriate that a map of the Eternal City has a prominent place in Caroline Llewellyn's home. She is seen here seated in her family room, with the map on the wall behind her.

"I've been very lucky," said the petite, dark-eyed author. She sat in the living room of her home on Maple Street, where high ceilings and wide windows encouraged any breeze that might be available on a sultry summer morning. Son Christopher (Kit), 8, was at the Recreation Department day camp, while eight-month-old Alexander was napping under the care of a part-time baby sitter.

Ms. Llewellyn began writing only after the birth of Kit, now a student at Community Park. Because she worked as a librarian at the Princeton Public Library and didn't want to take time away from her child, her writing was done in bits and pieces. "Sometimes I would get up at 5 in the morning and write until 7, when Kit woke up."

There are many writers — past and present — who wrote like this, she says. "Trollope's mother, with her children dying in the next room and no help, wrote a best seller. And Scott Turow wrote Presumed Innocent on his way back and forth to work every day."

Excellent Guidance. What proved especially helpful was some advice she received when she first began writing. Establish a routine, she was told, establish discipline. Sit down no matter what, and don't wait for inspiration.

Ms. Llewellyn said her first piece of luck was taking a writing class at the Princeton YM-YWCA with Flora Davis, as well as a course with Betty Hill at the West Windsor-Plainsboro Adult School.

"Flora Davis helped me very much with the book. She has a wonderful editorial eye, and is perceptive, constructive, encouraging, and full of enthusiasm. She gave me sense of my own abilities."

Ms. Davis talked to her agent, Emily Jacobson, about Ms. Llewellyn's book, and Ms. Jacobson agreed to take her on. "Getting Emily as my agent was my second bit of good luck," said Ms. Llewellyn.

The novel went out — and a folder full of rejections came back. Ms. Llewellyn did discover that what she had heard was true: what one person hates, the other person likes. "I have letters from publishers that are diamtetrically opposite."

She began working on her second book as soon as the first began its rounds, a move that involved her in a new project and kept the stress of seeking a publisher in bounds.

After about a year, the novel was sold to Scribner's, which then gave her a contract for a second book, now nearing completion. "Everything that happened was so much more than I had expected," she says.

The sense of place, of Rome, is strong and true in her novel — so evocative that it comes as a surprise to find that Ms. Llewellyn lived there only four months in 1977. She has, however, returned several times with her husband, a professor of Roman history.

"I love the city," she says. "It made me want to write about it. We left here in the worst blizzard and got there, and there was sun, and oranges in the trees. It's such a giving city — stimulating, beautiful, and exciting, despite its problems."

A Writer's Roots. Ms. Llewellyn feels that her love of writing, "and any talent for it which I may have," are inherited. Both her father and her English grandmother were writers. Her father, a doctor in a French-Canadian village on an island in the Bay of Fundy during her growing-up years, wrote poetry as well as six science-fiction novels. "His mother supported her family with her novels and short stories, published in England in the 30's," recalls Ms. Llewellyn.

Ms. Llewellyn's father was working for the British government in Singapore when she was born, but the family left during the Communist insurgency. "It became very dangerous," she says. "One of my parents' best friends was torn up by a mob."

She also spent part of her childhood in Montreal and Toronto, and visited her mother's family in Virginia in the summers.

Ms. Llewellyn received a B.A. from the University of Toronto and a master of library science from Rutgers University. For many years, she was a reference and acquisitions librarian at the Public Library.

"That is a wonderful job for a writer," she says. "Reference work teaches you a little about a lot of things, and opens up a lot of interesting areas. The acqusitions part is great. You read countless reviews and get to see the kinds of things that get published. You start to feel you could do it yourself."

As well as working on the completion of her new novel — a romantic suspense story set in Sicily — Ms. Llewellyn is an active member of a writers' group in town. It meets Sunday evenings, and each member of the all-female group has an opportunity to read her work aloud.

Called the LPG (Literary Peer Group), its members consist of editors, journalists, and writers of fiction and nonfiction.

Ms. Llewellyn's own taste in writers leans toward the Victorians, particularly Eliot, Trollope, and Thackeray. Among 20th-century authors, she especially likes John Fowles, who, she feels, writes a different book each time, no matter how successful his previous book was.

Among other favorites are fellow Canadians Margaret Atwood, Robertson Davies, and Margaret Laurance, as well as Isak Dinesen.

Although the writers she admires most do not repeat themselves, she feels she can't follow this path right now. "My goal is to establish a readership that will read my books. And to do that I have to write the same kind of book each time," she says.

Growth Is Unhealthy, Says Princeton Resident

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton has often had something to be notable for: Noble laureates, history, beauty, and then this year, after all the spring rain, a water shortage with rationing because its water supply is being used up by the tremendous development of shopping centers, office buildings, businesses and housing along Route 1 and adjacent areas.

The water company, hoping for a rate hike, says it can "fix it" with more pipes. But that will not "fix" the basic problem. The real difficulty is something we are told to believe in, called growth. We are taught that that means an increase in jobs. Everyone will have work and good pay. Businessmen will succeed and buy expensive housing. The many banks will process rivers of money, and the various public utilities will add to their huge incomes. And, finally, there is the myth that the tax rolls will grow and benefit the public. That and more is the image of growth.

What we are not told about growth is its production of a huge increase in traffic, inconvenience, cost of services (if any), destruction of food-producing farmland, and destruction of oxygen-producing greenery and trees. One of the main products of growth seems to be polluted air, said to be very noticeable above Route 1, from which the southern breezes blow it into Princeton as a kind of hot, overall smog. We apparently compete with Los Angeles for the distinction of most polluted smog, and we have won.

Instead of planners figuring out how they can fit more people into New Jersey by clustering developments so that they can have growth, they should be searching for original, imaginative ways to curtail growth and give New Jersey citizens a more healthy and pleasant life.

No longer is Princeton that "pleasant village." Nor can one say "its situation is remarkably healthy," as did noted 18th-century Jedidiah Morse, for we are the victims of overgrowth.

Citizens in Cape Cod Fight Lyme Disease

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Catching up with our local news upon our return from our vacation in Cape Cod, your article in TOWN TOPICS of July 27th on Lyme Disease brought to my mind the endeavors of the Lion's Club and the townspeople of Martha's Vineyard. They took it upon themselves to do something about it and to fight the tick before the peak season of their tourist trade.

This was demonstrated on the local evening news of Boston: they simply took a cylindrical pipe of about 12", the size of a paper towel pipe, stuffed it with cotton wool which was saturated with a chemical substance that both attracts and exterminates the ticks. The pipes were then placed on the ground, three feet apart over an area designated for the experiment. Unfortunately the results were not in by the time I left, but I am sure they can be gotten from their Lion's Club.

It seemed simple enough and what an admirable effort of the townspeople and their Lion's Club. If they are successful our Lion's Club and all of us can follow their fine example and do the same. It could possibly be as simple as applying any repellent in our own backyard.

It is worth looking into it.

More Adult Volunteers Sought by Girl Scouts

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is such a rewarding experience to watch children grow and learn and know that you have contributed to their education and fun.

The Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council serves approximately 10,000 girls in Mercer and Middlesex counties (including Princeton). As with most volunteer organizations, we never have enough adult volunteers. With the growing number of working mothers and single-parent families, it is even more difficult to find adult leadership.

Perhaps some readers would be interested in volunteering for Girl Scouting. You need not be a parent of a Girl Scout to be involved. There are various positions for adults as troop leaders or as part of the support systems to the troop in the form of first aiders and lifeguards for trips, badge consultants in numerous subjects, or managing the cookie sale.

Girl Scouting is a comprehensive, informal education program for all girls ages 5 to 18.

To become involved, contact Sherry Anderson, membership specialist, Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council, 108 Church Lane, East Brunswick, N.J. 08816. Telephone 1-800-572-2656.

Swimming, Diving Team Energizes at Pizza Star

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Community Park Swimming and Diving Team would like to thank the Pizza Star for its hospitality to our team with the following.

We learned last year to our chagrin
That some restaurants won't let us in,
But at Pizza Star that's not true;
Rosa welcomes our members old and new
And gives us delicious ice cream, too.
So, nurtured by pizza, we mostly win;
And after the meets we rush on in
Where everyone has a smiling face
And for speedy service they win the race,
That's Pizza Star, our favorite place.

Losing Weight May Be All In Your Head!

A large part of losing weight may actually be mental. If you have always been overweight and feel that maybe you always will be, what you are really saying is that there's nothing you can do to take control of your life. You're destined to be overweight. Your body responds to this psychological statement by seeing that it comes to pass.

At Diet Center we teach you how to visualize yourself as a slender, healthy person. This process, coupled with a sound nutritional diet and exercise, will help you be able to lose your excess weight and keep it off forever. Call today for a free consultation and let us show you how you can release the slender person who is locked inside your overweight body.

Recreation Dept. Offers Woodfield Nature Hike

The Recreation Department will be offering an educational nature hike at Woodfield Reservation on Saturday, August 20, from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. The raindate is August 27.

The walking tour will be conducted by Leland Merrill. Dr. Merrill, a 30-year Princeton resident, is a retired professor and administrator at Rutgers University. Trained as an entomologist, he later spent many years working in the natural resource studies area. Currently he volunteers as executive secretary of the New Jersey Academy of Sciences and as a director of the New Jersey Audubon Society.

The hike will explore the natural beauty of the publicly-owned landscape. Plantings, lakes, streams, wild flowers, trees, shrubs, insects and the natural geology of the area will be viewed and discussed.

Registration is required by August 18. Forms are available at the Recreation Office, 380 Witherspoon Street. For information call, 921-9480.

Respite Opportunities Available Through UCP

United Cerebral Palsy of Mercer County has announced a new program, RespiteOptions, for parents of individuals with disabilities.

Mr. and Mrs. David Nay, of Ewing, are the first couple to take part in the RespiteOptions weekend retreat. They registered at the Marriott Hotel in Princeton Forrestal Village for a weekend, and while they are away, their son Matt will spend the weekend with a respite worker employed by United Cerebral Palsy. The Marriott has donated a weekend a month for the program.

RespiteOptions is funded by the New Jersey Division of Developmental Disabilities through a grant from the Human Services Advisory Council of Mercer County. The program provides various respite services, depending on the needs of the family and the individual with the disability. The services include in-home respite, supervised outings and weekend retreats.

Any family residing in Mercer County that has a child with a physical disability is eligible for the program. The Nays have used both the in-home respite for their son and the weekend retreat for themselves.

RespiteOptions is designed to improve the quality of life of people with disabilities, to strengthen family bonds and maintain the family unit. Families participating in RespiteOptions also receive education, training and emotional support from the respite worker.

September for Road Work

Road reconstruction in the western section, and on Harrison Street, is scheduled to begin right after Labor Day, said Borough Engineer Carl Peters. This work was originally announced for an October, 1987, start-up; however, the Borough has been running behind in its road repair schedule.

In May, it was announced the road reconstruction — planned for Lafayette, Hunter, Library Place, Boudinot, Morven Place, Lilac Lane, Springdale and Harrison — would begin August 1. This has been moved up one month and it is the hope of Mr. Peters that the crews can be on the job right after Labor Day.

Parents Raise $40,000 For Hun School Projects

The Hun School Parents Association recently presented a gift of $40,000 to the school. The gift represented proceeds from association events sponsored throughout the 1987-88 academic year.

Revenues from the sale of Hungry Hun food parcels and school memorabilia as well as proceeds from the Treasure Island dinner dance, tuition raffle, jamboree, fashion show, and wild game dinner went to support a variety of school improvements, including new lockers and carpets in the middle school, new furniture in student lounges, additional computer equipment, and refurbishment of reception areas in Russell Hall.

Elected to succeed Ms. Kudman and Mr. Vaccaro as co-chairmen of the Parents Association are Susan Ranney of Princeton and William Axelrod of Kendall Park. Mr. Axelrod is also an alumnus in the Class of 1963. Mary Ellen Welykoridko will continue as treasurer of the Parents Association and Betty Scarlata as secretary.

Job Market for Seniors Looks Good This Year

Commissioner Charles Serraino of New Jersey's Department of Labor announced, for the fourth consecutive year, that the job outlook is good for New Jersey's college seniors graduating this summer.

According to a department survey, conducted in early May, of 16 New Jersey college and university placement officers, 50 percent of the respondents saw a good-to-excellent job market for the class of '88, and another 31 percent felt that job opportunities were as good as last year.

While 13 percent saw the job situation as somewhat less promising than a year ago, six percent felt it was too early to make a judgment. Depending on the school, New Jersey firms represented 50 to 95 percent of all job offers, and most schools saw an increase in the number of New Jersey firms making job offers.

According to Arthur J. O'Neal, assistant commissioner of policy and planning, graduating majors most in demand were accounting, computer science, general business administration, and electrical engineering.

Also in demand were nursing and hotel-restaurant management majors. Fewer placement officers pointed to specific majors as encountering difficulty in finding jobs. Instead, most cited a lack of career focus, poor job search preparation, and the frequent changing of major field of study as problematic.

Annual average starting salary ranges for the majors most in demand were: accounting $21,000-$24,000, computer science $22,000-$28,000, general business administration $20,000-$25,000 and electrical engineering $29,000-$30,000.

Compared with Department of Labor survey results from 1987, salary offers for the same majors showed increases of $1,000 to $2,000 at the lower end of the ranges, while there was little over-the-year variation at the upper end of the ranges.

In 1986, the survey of New Jersey colleges and universities first indicated that liberal arts majors were starting to get more job offers than in previous years. In 1988, almost one third of the schools indicated an overall improved market for liberal arts majors. Schools with large liberal arts programs cited the job outlook as "excellent."

Eileen B. Saums, Allied Member A.S.I.D., speaks on Have You Considered Furniture in Different Shapes?

Take a look at the average living room. Very often much of the furniture in the room has the same shape, and while you don't want a reckless hodge podge of furniture, it's still generally a good idea to have some furniture in different shapes to increase the interest in a room.

For instance, the pieces in a given room may be either mostly rectangular or mostly curved. In that case, why not consider, for example, something like a curved table in front of a rectangular sofa or a rectangular table in front of a curved sofa — or a chair in a different shape, or some piece of furniture somewhere in the room that offers a good contrast if your room has too much of the same shapes.

A new mirror or picture that's in a different shape and proportion than the furniture in a room may bring some new excitement, and that goes for any accessory that can give you needed shapes that your rooms don't now have.

The best bet is to come in and browse around with an eye towards how the shape of a piece can really help one of your rooms.

Whether you are looking for the usual or the unusual, you'll always find good furniture values here.

It's not too early to think of your Christmas decorating. Stop in to discuss your holiday plans.

the State Historic Register. The settlement agreement between the Township and the developer calls for 30 affordable housing units within the 300 unit White Farm development. A portion of the original farm, including the historic farmhouse, is to be deeded back to the previous owner Mrs. White with development deed restrictions. The Battlefield overlook from which the British spied the Americans before the onset of the Battle of Princeton will be turned over to the Township.

John Witherspoon student Rachel Silverman presented a petition to the judge signed by 519 Princeton school children. The petition asked that the White Farm not be developed and it be withdrawn from the compliance application. The Judge explained that the State had been asked to acquire the land for preservation and had refused. "Your town has tried to make the best of the situation as they see it," he said. He encouraged her to "keep pushing" and to send the petition to State officials.

Over-zoning. One of the few areas that Judge Serpentelli questioned in Mr. Caton's report was his claim that "over-zoning" was not needed in the Township. "Over-zoning" is an accepted practice of providing for more units than required in the fair share number to ensure compliance. Mr. Caton had disagreed with the Township's use of graduate student housing and of 22 units in Elm Court as part of the compliance figures. Without these units the Township would not be in compliance.

Mr. Caton praised the Township's continued committment to affordable housing and added that the rehabilitation plans in the Witherspoon Jackson neighborhood justify his claim. The Township is conducting a feasibility study of purchasing and rehabilitating existing housing stock in the neighborhood. This would be rented out to qualifying low income families.

In his testimony, Mr. Mallach explained that several tracts including the Ettl farm are zoned so that developers get a 25 percent density bonus in return for making a cash contribution to the affordable housing fund. "It is reasonably projected that a significant amount of cash would come to the Township," he said, explaining how the rehabilitation project could be funded and more affordable housing units would be added to the housing stock.

The judge requested that Mr. Mallach supply Mr. Caton with a narrative outlining the tracts zoned for developer contributions for Mr. Caton's review.

All of the affordable housing tracts in the affordable housing plan were touched on in the testimony. Ronald L. Reisner, representing the Township, and Gerald J. Muller, representing the Planning Board, did most of the questioning sitting opposite Henry Hill, representing Calton Homes, who asked very few questions during the precedings.

Still to testify at the September hearing are the majority of the witnesses called by the Township including the site planner for White farm, the Planning Board's professional planner Duggan Kimball, and the Township engineer. Several historians are scheduled to testify or submit testimony by both the developer and Friends of Princeton Open Space. Todd Bryan of Stony Brook-Millstone Water Shed Association is also scheduled to testify, called by Friends of Open Space.

About 25 interested parties formed the audience for Tuesday's hearing in Toms River, including the entire membership of Township Committee.

Five Members of Princeton Firm Indicted On Charges Involving Stock Transactions

Five officials of Princeton/Newport Partners L.P., 33 Witherspoon Street, were indicted by a federal grand jury last Thursday on charges of racketeering, conspiracy, and mail and wire fraud. The indictments were announced at a news conference in Manhattan by Rudolph W. Giuliani, the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

Named in the indictment are James Sutton Regan, 46, Deer Run Farm, Harbourton, a managing partner; Charles M. Zarzechi, 40, 13 East Shore Drive, Hopewell Township, a general partner and chief trader of the firm; Jack Z. Rabinowitz, 23 Audubon Lane, a general partner and head of financial and accounting operations; Paul Berkman, 41, 57 Hemlock Circle, general partner and chief trader for Princeton/Newport Arbitrage Partners, a subsidiary of the firm; and Steven B. Smotrich, 33, 106 Knickerbocker Drive; the firm's controller.

All were charged with one count of conspiracy, one count of racketeering and one count of racketeering conspiracy, plus 32 counts of mail and wire fraud. The racketeering charges fall under the Federal Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, generally known as RICO.

Also indicted with the Newport officials was a former Drexel Burnham Lambert, Inc. employee, Bruce L. Newberg, 31, of Santa Monica, Calif., a trader of convertible securities who worked in the firm's Beverly Hills, Calif., office until earlier this year. He is also charged under the RICO statute, and with 26 counts of mail and wire fraud.

BUSINESS

Mr. Newberg has already been arraigned in Federal District Court in Manhattan, and was released after posting a bond of $250,000. The Princeton/Newport officials are expected to be arraigned this Thursday.

If convicted, the defendants face 20 years in prison on each of the two racketeering counts and five years on each of the remaining 33 charges. In addition, they face fines of $250,000 on each count.

Stock Parking Charged. The indictment charges that officers of the Princeton firm engaged in "stock parking," a practice intended to hide the true ownership of shares and circumvent reporting requirements of the SEC or the IRS. Using this practice, the defendants would sell a block of shares to another firm while entering into a "secret agreement" to buy the shares back at a prearranged price. Drexel, Merrill Lynch and other, unnamed firms were involved with Princeton/Newport in the scheme, the indictment charges. Merrill Lynch was not accused of any wrongdoing because it cooperated fully with the government's investigation, according to Mr. Giuliani.

The "stock parking" allowed Princeton/Newport to create false long-term capital gains and short-term capital losses through a series of transactions with Drexel. The indictment charges this enabled the firm to generate more than $13 million in false tax losses from November 1984 through February 1986.

The government's evidence in the case is based on numerous tape recordings of telephone conversations made by Princeton/Newport itself. These recordings were routinely made by the firm as a back-up in case a trade was incorrectly executed by one of its brokers. A single trade at Princeton/Newport often involves more than $1 million.

According to federal prosecutors, the recordings reveal some of the Princeton/Newport officials discussing various aspects of the stock parking dealings. The tapes, along with other documents, computer printouts and records were seized in a raid last December 17 at Princeton/Newport's offices on Witherspoon Street by some 50 federal marshals.

Use of RICO Protested. Lawyers for four of the defendants proclaimed their clients' innocence and protested the use of RICO in what they said should be, at most, a civil tax case. Theodore Wells, the lawyer for Mr. Regan, said the government is attempting to criminalize charges that have "previously been viewed as purely technical and deserving of civil reprimand, at worst."

The defendants' lawyers said the government hopes to make the Princeton/Newport officers and the former Drexel trader testify in more important in-

Judge Orders Asset Freeze

Following on the heels of Thursday's indictment, a Federal District Judge in New York City issued a ruling freezing more than 200 accounts or other assets associated with the six Princeton/Newport officials.

However, the ruling will not be carried out until the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in New York rules on an appeal by the defendants. That ruling is expected to come this week.

The asset freeze covers a wide range. It includes assets owned by the defendants, as well as assets of Princeton/Newport Partners. This extends to parcels of land owned by the six officials and the firm.

Princeton/Newport is allowed to continue to make any securities dealings or conduct other normal business, but must give the government a tape recording of securities transactions and other deals from its trading room each week.

According to the order, Princeton/Newport may not dilute any of its assets except in the ordinary course of business. None of the defendants may draw a salary of more than $2,000 a week. Payments on any outstanding liabilities, maintenance needs and fees for lawyers are allowed.

vestigations concerning two individuals it believes are involved in the insider trading case. One is Michael Milken, the head of Drexel's bond department in Beverly Hills; the other is Robert Freeman, head of arbitrage at Goldman Sachs & Co. Mr. Freeman and Mr. Regan have known each other since they were classmates at Dartmouth.

Mr. Freeman was arrested early in 1987 at his office at Goldman, and later indicted on insider trading charges. However, the government could not come up with any evidence of wrongdoing and the charges were subsequently dismissed.

The lawyers for the Princeton/Newport defendants said their clients had refused to cooperate with the government in this or any other investigation.

"It is a nasty game that he is playing," Paul R. Grand, Mr. Zarzechi's lawyer said about Mr. Giuliani. "The message is, 'We will indict you for racketeering unless you come in and testify against others.' "

Mr. Wells added, "It's clear that they are being used as pawns in a chess game that's being played on a much larger board."

Mr. Giuliani denied claims by defense lawyers that he and others in his office threatened Princeton/Newport officials with the RICO law for the last few months. He also defended the use of the RICO statutes in the case.

Passed in 1970 to give the government a better weapon with which to fight organized crime and drug trafficking, the RICO law enables a person or business committing two or more felonies as part of a pattern to be charged with racketeering. The penalties upon conviction, as noted above, are very stiff.

Princeton/Newport is a limited partnership run by Oakley Sutton Management, Inc. The firm was founded almost 20 years ago by Edward Thorp of Newport Beach, Calif., and Mr. Regan.

Princeton Bank Here Undergoing Renovations

Princeton Bank's branch office on Nassau Street, the legal headquarters of the bank that was founded in 1834, is undergoing a major, million-dollar renovation scheduled for completion by year-end. Sussna Design Office of Princeton is the designer.

Initially, the renovation will focus on a major face-lift of the office's Nassau Street entry where traditinnal materials such as granite, bronze and mahogany will be used.

The second phase of the project, renovation of the banking floor, will incorporate several additional teller stations to accommodate heavy traffic flow. Another important design element will be a platform configuration which will provide bank personnel with a more confidential area in which to discuss customers' specific financial services needs. New lighting and furniture will also be installed.

Commuter Service Halted By Princeton Air Link

Princeton Air Link has shut down its commuter service from Princeton Airport because of severe cash flow problems. The last shuttle flights from Princeton to JFK International Airport flew on July 29.

According to PAL owner Jack Hoyt, the company may seek the protection of the United States Bankruptcy Court for restructuring or liquidation.

Earlier problems had caused the company to suspend service to Newark Airport for 10 months, when PAL could not cover insurance premiums. When the service was resumed, it was unprofitable because of too few passengers.

While the JFK run had attracted enough passengers, the 60-day delay in receiving cash from the Airline Clearing Service created a chronic cash problem. The airline was unable to raise enough capital to address the problem.

The only remaining commuter service in the area is offered by Piedmont Airlines from Mercer County Airport. Piedmont flies daily shuttles to Baltimore and Washington.

New United Jersey Unit Formed by Bank Merger

United Jersey Banks has announced that the merger of two of its larger member banks into a single organization, United Jersey Bank/Central, N.A., has been finalized. In the consolidation, United Jersey Bank/Franklin State, headquartered in Somerset, was combined with United Jersey Bank, N.A., located in Princeton, forming a new institution that will serve the rapidly growing central portion of the State.

Kenneth A. Bott, who held the position of chairman, president and chief executive officer of United Jersey Bank/Franklin State, is chairman of the new bank, while John J. O'Gorman, who served as president and chief executive officer of United Jersey Bank, N.A., is president of United Jersey Bank/Central, N.A., which will be headquartered in a new Princeton location.

As a result of the consolidation, United Jersey Bank/Central, N.A., will have assets of $1.6 billion with 47 offices in Mercer, Middlesex, Union, Monmouth and Somerset counties. The merger will increase the legal lending limit — the amount permitted by law that can be lent to a customer — enabling the new bank to better serve the local communities.

United Jersey Banks is an over $10 billion Princeton-based financial services organization which currently has 13 member banks and 11 active nonbank subsidiaries.

Carnegie Center Owner Purchases Nassau Park

The Landis Group, developers of Carnegie Center, has purchased Nassau Park for $60 million from a group headed by Rush and Thompkins Ltd. The 187-acre site, which currently has only one three-story building on it, is at the intersection of Route 1 and Quaker Bridge Road, adjacent to the new overpass. The purchase was made in partnership with Novasaw Associates.

Alan B. Landis, of New York, principal of the group which also developed multi-story Tower Center in East Brunswick, said that Nassau Park will be converted to a $300 million mixed use and research and development park, geared to high tech uses. An entirely new plan and identity will be created for the West Windsor development, said Mr. Landis, and even the name may be changed.

Construction at the site is expected to begin in early 1989. The buildings will be multi-level structures that will be created exclusively for high tech research and development application.

Personnel Notes

Cenlar Federal savings Bank has appointed Carmen Bonilla as business development supervisor. She joined the bank in 1984 as a teller, and later became a senior customer service representative.

Brian D. Moore, PE, has joined CUH2A as a partner with responsibility for overseeing the operations of the firm's HVAC, plumbing, and electrical engineering departments. He was most recently manager of building services for Sverdrup Corporation in St. Louis.

Macintosh and AppleShare help you to go to press when you're pressed for time.

Turning out superior documents under tight deadlines takes teamwork.
But there's a difference between a typical workgroup and a well-coordinated team.
In many publishing environments, the difference is a network using Macintosh® computers and one or more AppleShare® file servers.
The Apple Workgroup System, with the AppleShare File Server, streamlines the flow of information between members of the group. It provides instant access to shared text, graphics and reference data, yet allows you the option of restricting access to select confidential documents.
Sharing of critical information means marketing and project management people can easily see how work is progressing.
Writers, designers and illustrators can interact more freely. Explore more creative approaches. And zero in on better solutions faster.
No more telephone tag. Or duplication of effort. Or hold-ups because the individual who has the information you need now — is not available until later.
Talk to us about desktop publishing and Apple Workgroup Computing. The system that turns your workgroup into a winning team.

Set, Costumes, Live Orchestra Energize 'Oklahoma!' In Washington Crossing Open Air Theatre Production

The first thing one notices about Encore Theatre Productions' presentation of Oklahoma! at Washington Crossing Open Air Theatre is the set. The brightly-colored farmhouse, cornfield and sky of the backdrop set the stage and mood for the entrance of Curly, the protagonist of the story, who enters through the audience singing one of musical theater's most memorable numbers, "Oh! What a Beautiful Morning." With the help of a body mike, Jay Doolan is able to begin his characterization of Curly from the back of the audience, milking the crowd with the song as he works his way to the stage.

Thankfully, the use of an orchestra has returned to the Open Air Theatre, and with it the sounds of live winds and brass complementing Mr. Doolan and all the singers.

Curly's principal goal in life seems to be gaining the attention of Laurey, played by Gretchen Felix. She and Mr. Doolan have played opposite each other before, and the familiarity and comfort on stage is apparent in their performing ease. Ms. Felix has one of the more trained voices in the cast, a strong soprano which easily cuts through the orchestra.

The other primary couple of Oklahoma! is Will Parker, played by Gregg Klein, and Ado Annie, performed by Erin Marshall. Ms. Marshall is having a busy summer; she recently appeared in a leading role in an Open Air Theatre production of Iolanthe. As Ado Annie, Ms. Marshall portrays a character with a dilemma: she is swept off her feet by any man who pays her a kind word. Ado Annie provides much of the humor of this musical, and Ms. Marshall's stage energy and vocal strength carry her well through this role. It is also refreshing to see a classically-trained musician broaden her musical horizons through musical theater.

Energetic Ensembles. Ado Annie's counterpart, Will Parker, is sung by Gregg Klein with a rough, yet pleasing edge to his voice, which suits the role of a rough-and-tumble cowhand. His opening number, "Kansas City," displays another strength of this production — the large cast of ensemble singers and dancers. The male ensemble numbers are especially well done, with a great deal of energy, and it is refreshing to see the wide range of ages represented by the ensemble cast.

Oklahoma! includes two substantial roles which are primarily speaking parts, those of Aunt Eller and Ali Hakim. As Aunt Eller, Susan Fuhrer is a solid actress with good projection, who also adds much musically to the large ensemble number, "The Farmer and the Cowman." Bill O'Neill plays the role of Ali Hakim — who has been sleazing around the countryside for so long that it's hard to know which end was greased first — with sufficient snake-charmer oiliness.

There are a few slow moments in this production, some of which are inherent in the show. The dancing could use a bit of spicing up, particularly in the long extended dance/dream sequences. However, the large cast in bright costumes creates a pleasing visual effect against the night sky, and the energy from the actors extends far beyond the pit into the audience.

The nine-person orchestra is one of the most effective musical elements of the show. An unnamed conductor holds the ensemble of winds and brass together (the absence of strings actually helps keep things in tune — winds and brass are not as affected by the humidity), and the instruments add a wonderful color to the singing, creating a true musical background.

Oklahoma! will be presented this Wednesday through Saturday at the Open Air Theatre at Washington Crossing State Park. Information about tickets and any weather concerns can be obtained by calling 737-1826 after 4:30 on the day of performance.

News of the THEATRES

Week's Films Are Listed For Kresge Auditorium

Summer Cinema continues in the air-conditioned Kresge Auditorium in the Frick Chemical building on Washington Road with double features every night except Monday.

This weekend's double bill will feature A Clockwork Orange at 7:15 and Diva at 9:45. Stanley Kubrick's film A Clockwork Orange, based on the Anthony Burgess novel, polarized the movie-going public; you either loved it or hated it.

———

The setting is London in the near future, where gangs of roving adolescent boys rule the night with violence. "Droog" gang leader Alex is played by Malcolm McDowell. This is not a film for the squeamish.

Kubrick's icy vision of a future in which western society has become a mod slum, at once super technologized and squalid, takes a galvanizing and hypnotic look at those aspects of modern life that frighten us all.

Diva put its director, newcomer Jean-Jacques Beineix, in the front ranks of French moviemakers.

The story focuses on a young Paris mailman (Frederic Andrei) who loves opera and is fascinated with an American diva (Wilhelmenia Fernandez), who won't record her voice for fear of diluting her art. After he secretly tapes her performance, two Chinese record pirates find out, and the chase is on. Another recording accidentally dropped in his mail bag, implicating a high-ranking police inspector, further involves the hero in a maelstrom of thriller twists.

Tuesday through Thursday, August 16 to 18, Summer Cinema will present the Spanish melodrama Law of Desire at 7:30 and Brunuel's 34th feature, That Obscure Object of Desire at 9:15.

Law of Desire is by Pedro Almodovar, considered the strongest and most distinctive voice to emerge from post-Franco Spanish cinema. The central character of the film is Pablo, a successful director whose gay lifestyle leads one jealous bedmate to go to any lengths to possess him, including murder.

In a controlled mixture of sexual adventurousness, lurid theatrics and camp excess, this adult film swings from crime thriller to romantic tragedy to x-rated soap opera.

That Obscure Object of Desire found the late Spanish master Brunuel at age 77, still poking fun at the age and himself.

Mathieu (Fernando Rey) is a widower who falls hopelessly in love with a young woman, Conchita. He pursues her relentlessly from Paris to Seville in an odyssey of sexual frustration that grows funnier and more desperate. Since he sees Conchita as half-whore and half-virgin, Brunuel has her played by two different actresses, with her voice played by a third.

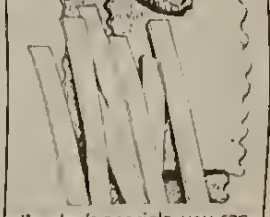
YOU HAVE TO BE A SPECIAL RESTAURANT TO MAKE SPECIALS AS SPECIAL AS THIS.



At J.B. Winberie, we think menu specials ought to be what their name implies—special.

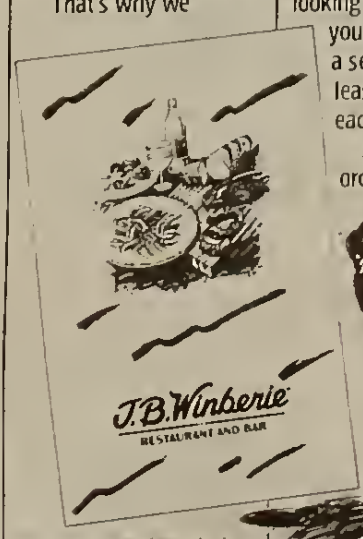
That's why we always have five to choose from, like Primavera or Chicken Fettuccini.

You know that if you're looking for fresh seafood, you can order from a selection of at least four varieties each day.

And if you don't order from the day's specials, you can rest assured something else on our menu will appeal to your taste buds.

Of course, variety isn't all you can expect from us. Expect delicious food, first-rate service, and prices that are modest.

Put those ingredients together and you've got a very special restaurant. J.B. Winberie.



put such care into their preparation.

And that's why we put more on our menu each day than most restaurants offer in a week.

So if you're in the mood for pasta, there's

State Exhibition Open To Photographs, Prints

"The New Jersey Arts Annual, Printmaking and Photography" will be held at the New Jersey State Museum from January 14 through February 26. The annual project is co-sponsored by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and the New Jersey State Museum, the Jersey City Museum, the Montclair Art Museum, The Newark Museum, the Morris Museum, and the Noyes Museum.

The statewide juried exhibition is open to printmakers and photographers currently living and working in New Jersey. Works to be submitted must have been completed during the past two years and not part of any previous exhibition.

Deadline for application, which includes submission of slides and entry materials, is no later than October 6. For an application write: Prospectus, New Jersey Arts Annual, Bureau of Fine Arts, New Jersey State Museum, 205 West State Street, CN 530, Trenton, NJ 08625, or call 292-5420 or 292-1886 Monday through Friday from 9 to 4.

Exhibits

The Rare Books and Special Collections Department of the Princeton University Library will extend the current exhibition, "Judaica at Princeton," from August 14 until October 2.

Viewers are invited to visit the Main Exhibition Gallery, Firestone Library, Monday through Friday from 8:45 until 4:30; Saturday and Sunday hours are from 2 to 5.

An exhibit of Cibachrome photographic prints by Kate Bader and William Anderson will be on display at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center at Educational Testing Service from August 15 to September 30.

Mr. Anderson's photographs of the Western landscape focus on the rhythms of moving water, geological stratifications, and light, shadow, and color.

Ms. Bader, whose work has appeared in National Geographic World and GEO, will show photographs from assignments in North Africa, South America, Asia and the Middle East. Her subjects include architecture, landscape, and portraits.

Persons wishing to attend a free reception for the artists at the Chauncey Center on Friday, August 26, from 4 to 6 p.m., should call Carroll Siskind at (201) 775-7159.

Acrylic paintings by Elaine Vrabel will be on display in Educational Testing Service's Conant Hall, Lounge B, from August 15 through September 30. The artist incorporates animals, and dogs in particular, into her work because she feels they symbolize the victimization of nature. "Dogs are often treated worse than wildlife," Ms. Vrabel says. "People demand that dogs adapt to their conceptions of proper behavior and the result is a lot of abuse."

An exhibit, "Summer 1988," will be on view at The Williams

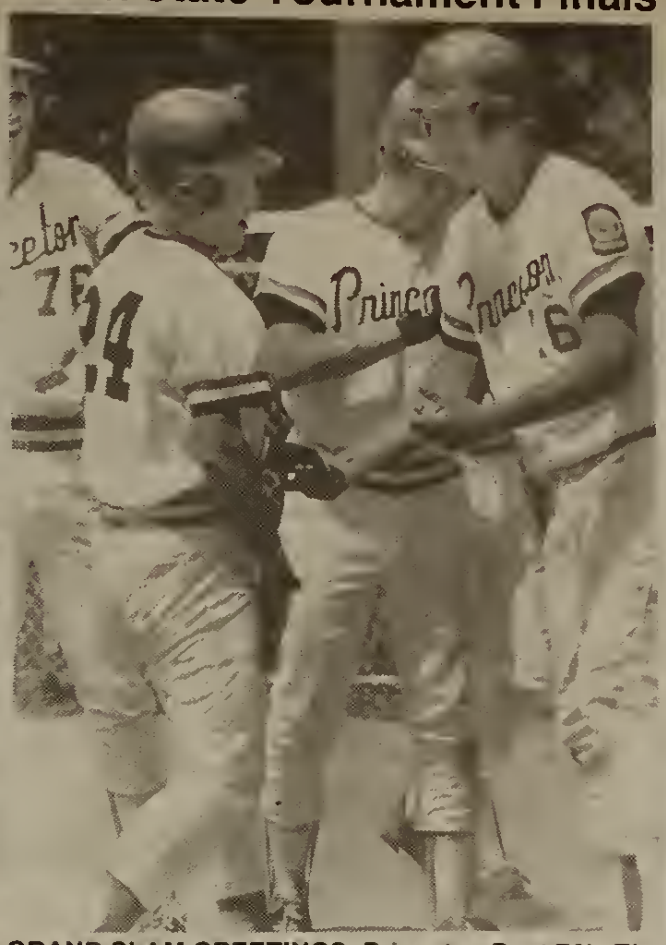
The "Comeback Kids" Won't Be Coming Back: Post 76 Falls Twice in State Tournament Finals

SPORTS

The summer odyssey of the Princeton Post 76 American Legion baseball team that carried it all the way to the State finals as one of the top eight teams in New Jersey is over.

Post 76, which had stirred its followers with one-run, come-from-behind, extra-inning victories in the State tournament quarterfinals, could not add the final chapter to its Cinderella story. Princeton was defeated, 6-2, by Father and Son Post 435 of Edison, the District One champion, Saturday morning at Breslin Field in Lyndhurst. It was eliminated 24 hours later on Sunday morning in the double elimination State finals when it was outslugged by Berlin Vending, 16-13, to become the first team among the final eight to exit. It marked the first time since June — when it lost a pair of games to Mercer County champion Hamilton Post 31 — that Post 76 had lost two in a row.



GRAND SLAM GREETINGS: Princeton Post 76's Tim O'Connell is congratulated by his teammates after hitting a two-out grand slam in the sixth inning in Sunday's State legion tournament game with Berlin Vending. The blow was one of few high moments for the Princeton team which was ousted from the tournament following a 16-13 loss to Berlin.

If the team — which finished with a 23-14 record — had an overriding characteristic, it was its determination to fight back until the final out, no matter what the odds. Post 76 manager Larry Bender referred to this when he said, "The fact that we got this far is a credit to these kids. There are no excuses — and no need for any. They have nothing but to be proud of themselves."

Yes, agreed Bender, the team's success — after it appeared late in the regular season that it might not make the playoffs at all — has been a Cinderella story. "But the comeback kids won't be coming back any more — until next year."

Two years ago, in 1986, Bender had also guided Post 76 to the State finals.

Berlin Vending (20-9), which lost 4-2 to Medford in the opening round to drop to the losers' bracket along with Princeton, is the same team which defeated Post 76, 6-5, in the opening game of the State quarterfinals, held in Linden. After both teams had scored a single run in the first, Post 76 took a 2-1 lead in the third, but it was short-lived.

Berlin, the Camden County league runner-up, tagged Post 76 starter J.F. Glassmacher for three runs in the third on a bases-loaded double by pitcher Bruce Stowall. In the fifth, Berlin vaulted to a 10-2 lead with a five-run outburst that was triggered after two outs by a pair of errors. "Our one bad inning," said Bender.

Post 76 cut the deficit to 10-6 the next inning when Tim O'Connell, who endured seven position changes by Bender, including an inning on the mound, connected with a two-out, 360-foot grand slam homer over the left field fence.

But the myriad personnel changes that Bender had promised after Princeton had lost to Edison the previous day, and which he delivered, could not save Princeton this day. Berlin added another five-run inning in the seventh to go up 16-8, as it rapped six Post 76 pitchers

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Did you know that the last season was the first year in the history of major-college football that two teams from the same state finished No. 1 and No. 2 in the final AP and UPI football polls? ... The top two teams in the final polls of 1987 were Miami of Florida and Florida State.

Here's a good question for you. If you were disabled, who would continue to pay your salary?
- Your employer?
- Social Security?
- You?

Surprisingly, although there are lots of football stadiums in America that seat over 65,000 people, there is only one big league baseball park in the nation that seats over 65,000 ... That is Cleveland Stadium which seats 74,383.

.Here's proof that sometimes you shouldn't give up on a player too soon ... When the great Willie Mays first came to major league baseball in 1951, he failed to hit in 26 of his first 27 times up ... He was batting .037 ... At that moment it didn't look like Mays would become one of the greatest players of all time — but he did.

(five in the last four innings) for 16 hits and stole seven bases in eight attempts.

As usual, Princeton clawed back during the 3½-hour contest until the final out, plating two runs in the seventh, one in the eighth and four more runs in the ninth inning.

In the ninth there was one more opportunity for drama when, with runners on first and second, two out and four runs in, Tim Rumer, the team's leading batter, hitting the ball at better than a .500 clip, was in the on-deck circle. Rumer already had a double and single in the contest, but he never got the chance to swing his bat one last time: Jim Brienza at the plate went down swinging for the final out.

"We were behind several times and still managed to keep coming back," said Bender. "We're a young club. I think this should prove to those coming back that they are just as good as anybody if they are willing to work hard."

Spirit Is Missing. After winning four straight games in the losers' bracket in the quarterfinals, Post 76 had hoped to get off to a winning start in the finals. An opening loss meant Post 76 would have to win five straight in five days to emerge as the State champions. Even for Princeton those odds were formidable.

It isn't that Post 76 bowed to streaking, 23-7 Edison, which won its 14th in a row — it was the manner in which the club lost on Saturday that bothered Bender. Missing too many signs and making mental mistakes added up to a lacklustre performance in Bender's view — that and the five-hit pitching of Edison's Ruby Innocenti.

Princeton scored one run in the first when Dan Sexton, leading off, got on via an error, stole second, advanced to third on a wild throw and scored on Rumer's double. Meanwhile, Scott Lord was keeping the Edison bats quiet with his patented assortment of breaking balls and off-speed pitches.

In the fifth, Princeton had an opportunity to go up two runs when it had a runner on third. But Andy Petrone missed a squeeze sign, took the pitch, and watched as the runner, A.J. Pietrinferno, was hung up between third and home for the out. Edison took advantage of the lapse when it scored three runs in the same inning after two were out, finally solving Lord for four hits.

Another potential scoring opportunity for Princeton went sour in the eighth. With Petrone and Sexton on base, Glassmacher missed a sacrifice sign and eventually grounded into an inning-ending double play.

Edison sealed the outcome in the bottom of the same inning when it scored three more runs off Lord, who suffered his fourth loss in 12 decisions. Edison's 11-hit attack was led by shortstop Shawn Brown who had three hits in four at-bats, including a pair of doubles. Sexton led Princeton with two hits.

18 Strikeouts for Rumer. Earlier in the week, the 4-3 victory over Roselle which clinched Princeton's advance to the State finals, along with Hamilton Post 31 from District Two, was pure Post 76.

Post 76 won the game in the tenth inning when Sexton singled home Petrone, who had walked on four pitches. Petrone then stole second on a close play and continued on to third when the ball skidded off the glove of the Roselle shortstop.

Until then, Rumer had pitched a memorable game for Post 76. In 9⅔ innings of relief, he struck out 18, prompting Bender to describe the effort as "one of the best pitching performances I have ever seen at this level."

Bender had summoned Rumer early, after starter Mark Lee was able to retire only the leadoff batter before Roselle struck for two runs on a single, RBI double, stolen base and an RBI single by Shawn Van Vliet, the first batter to face Rumer.

Although outhit, 10-6, Post 76 chipped away at Roselle, scoring single runs in the second and third, both times without a hit. In the fifth it went ahead, 3-2, after Petrone, who had a fine playoff series, singled, went to third on a nicely-executed hit and run by Sexton and came home on an error by the Roselle right fielder.

Roselle (21-11) tied it at 3 in the sixth when Pete Fiorini, Rumer's counterpart on the mound, singled and rode home on an error and another base hit to center. Twice, in the ninth and again in the tenth, Roselle placed the go-ahead runner on base but each time Rumer was able to come up with a big strikeout.

Along the way, Fiorini (6-3) matched Rumer pitch for pitch. Said Bender, "It was like Dwight Gooden vs. Nolan Ryan out there."

The 18 Ks by Rumer were two more than his previous high this season and his seventh win in 10 outings. He and Sexton combined for four of Princeton's six hits.

The previous day, Post 76 — behind surprise starter Jim Brienza — defeated Livingston, 9-2. It was the only game among the five in the quarter-final round played by Princeton that was not decided by one run.

Brienza limited Livingston to six hits and one earned run and fanned three in the seven innings he worked, for his second win. He was 1-0 in regular season play.

Princeton scored in each of the first three innings to take a 5-0 lead and then Rumer broke the game open with a three-run double off losing pitcher Scott Berson to give Post 76 a commanding 8-1 lead after four innings. Fourteen-year-old Peter Prodanov paced Princeton's nine-hit attack with three hits, while Rumer continued his hot hitting (15-for-31 and 15 RBIs in playoff games) with a pair of doubles.

Scott Lee pitched the last two innings for Princeton — his 27th appearance in 34 games for Post 76.

Ficarro's Finishes Third; Playoffs Are Under Way

Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body finished third at the end of regular season play last week in the Mercer County Women's Softball League with a 19-6 record. It marked the first time that Ficarro's, the defending champion, has not finished first or second in the standings.

Ficarro's was scheduled to meet second-place Grove Plumbing earlier this week at Mercer Park, while first-place Three Seasons opposed fourth-place Dot's Girls. The two survivors of the one-game playoff among the top four teams will meet in a best-of-three series to determine the league champion, starting Thursday at Mercer Park. Two games will be played, beginning at 7. If a third game is necessary, it will be played on Tuesday, August 16, at Mercer Park.

Three Seasons won the regular season title when it defeated Grove, 2-1, last week in a one-game playoff. Both had finished with 20-5 records. The winning run came in the sixth on a solo homer by Three Seasons' Patti Kinghorn.

Ficarro's ended its regular season on a winning note last week when it defeated 7-Up, 12-2. Janet Comerford and winning pitcher Doreen "Bip" Ragazzo each had three hits in four appearances for the victors, with Comerford belting a triple and driving in a pair of runs in her at bats.

Cindy Lombardo connected for a solo home run for Ficarro's in the fourth inning and Grace Durland rapped a triple. Cee Aerstin, Durland and Lombardo all had two hits apiece.

During the playoffs, assistant coach Al Lombardo will manage the team in the absence of vacationing manager Bob Smyth.

candidates from the ranks of School Board members. The two — Win Pike and Gail Firestone — both went on to become Township Mayor.

Mr. Tomalin, currently vice president of the School Board, has served as Board president twice. He has also been a leader of Cub Scouts and Indian Guides, and is presently a director of the Princeton Rotary Club. A Clover Lane resident, he and his wife, Sharon, a special education teacher at the Hun School, have three children

The new candidate said he feels the major concerns in the Township have to do with getting the Harrison Street bridge reopened, improving the streets, and making sure the sewer system and water supply are adequate.

If the 50-year-old Mr. Tomalin is elected in November, he will bring to two the number of men — and of Republicans — on Township Committee. His male Republican counterpart is Tom Poole.

THREE FOR THE G.O.P.: Michael Tomalin, newly announced Republican candidate for Township Committee, stands between the two current Republican Township Committee members, Carol Wojciechowicz and Tom Poole.

Sewers

Tract, DeMenil Trust, and the Gerard Lambert property. An area off 206, west of the Heatherstone development was added for health reasons, since many area septic systems have failed.

Township Committee and Planning Board member Phyllis Marchand emphasized the importance of the sewer additions in the Township's affordable housing plan. Sewer availability was used in negotiations with developers who will either construct affordable housing on their property or will contribute to the Township housing fund. "The creativity of the affordable housing plan depends on these additions," she said.

The report also amended the plan by adding areas that are already sewered but had been left out through administrative error. It deleted areas that would never be sewered, including Carnegie Lake and parks or reserved open spaces.

First Comprehensive Plan. Mr. Kimball described the plan as the "first comprehensive document to be adopted by committee regarding where sewers can be extended."

He emphasized the importance of the plan since sewerage is a limited resource that can act as a "lever for change" that stimulates growth.

Attorney Henry Hill, who represents Calton Homes, developer of the White Farm, had brought his own court stenographer to the Planning Board meeting. Speaking in favor of the plan, he reminded the Board that, in the Township's settlement agreement to end litigation with Calton, there is a provision that the Township would support Calton in litigation against any governing body attempting to block the addition of White Farm to the 208 Wastewater Plan. He described it as "a crucial mosaic in the puzzle that will be before Judge Serpentelli on August 9."

(The settlement agreement and the Township's Mt. Laurel affordable housing plans went before Superior Court Judge Eugene Serpentelli in Toms River for approval on Tuesday.)

Eileen Kelly of Fox, Rothschild, attorney for the Institute for Advanced Study, had asked that any formal recommendation not be made until the Institute can review the plan.

Drugs

"The Police Department had to be called a week or so ago," she told Council, "because someone had removed a manhole cover from the street." She added that many parents have stopped allowing their children out to play.

"We have grown tired of being the silent people in the community," said The Rev. Adrian McFarlane, pastor of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. "Decency has been silenced. This group will not go away. It will only grow until we get rid of the cancer in the community."

The house at 240 John Street, a ten-room rooming house owned by Sanford Zeitler of Princeton, was ordered in the spring to be reverted back to single-family occupancy. The Zoning Board of Adjustment refused to grant Mr. Zeitler a variance to continue to maintain the yellow stucco structure as a rooming house. Attorneys for Mr. Zeitler have filed an appeal in Superior Court asking reversal of the Board decision.

Zoning Officer Frank Slimak has had a summons issued for Mr. Zeitler to appear in Municipal Court on Wednesday. He charges that the landlord is continuing to use the site as a rooming house, rather than reverting it back to its original single-family use. "Continuing to use it as a rooming house is in violation of the land use ordinance," said Mr. Slimak.

Ms. Fitch said she had no idea how many people were currently living at 240 John. "But the noise in our community has increased tremendously due to congregating there. There is abusive, obscene language, and loud music."

Mayor Barbara Sigmund told the John-Witherspoon residents that "these conditions should not be tolerated in the Borough." She said that efforts had been made to work on the problem over the past couple of years, including adding a police foot patrol to the area.

Councilman Mark Freda, who said he saw a need to pursue every avenue to injure the landlord financially, added that it might be a good idea to start a neighborhood crime watch. This seemed of interest to several in the audience.

Police Chief Michael Carnevale told the residents that 240 John Street was a "nightmare" to the Police Department too. "We received a call about a confrontation in the yard," he said. "A person complained that another person threw a bucket of urine from the upper porch onto him. And when a person gets into a fight with another in the house, it often spills out into the street."

He added that when certain people lived there, there was drug dealing. "And now the Borough is being sued for $2,000 for breaking down doors in a drug raid."

The Police Chief told residents to call the Police Department, "and tell us what's on your mind. I guarantee we will respond. You do not have to give your name. I warn you that you will be asked, but just say you will not give it."

He added that he was seeing the faces of people he met 15 or 16 years ago, when the neighborhood had the same problems. "They will never go away," he said, "but we will deal with them."

LET'S TALK ABOUT

JAPANESE BEETLES

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Japanese beetles are causing some concern throughout the area. Some ornamentals commonly injured by adult Japanese beetles are as follows: roses, American linden, Japanese maple, gray birch, crabapples, Virginia creeper, London planetree, black cherry, pussy willow, American mountain-ash, sassafras and flowering ornamental fruit trees. Poison-ivy is also a host plant. High beetle populations plus ample soil moisture equals high grub populations in your lawn later this year.

On the lighter side...

When the Marquess of Hertford had to heve a tree removed on his English estate, he seerched the world to find the "R.J." who had carved his initiels on it in WW II. Through militery records, he finelly found Robert Johnson in Certhage, N.C. The Marquess was going to fly Johnson to Englend as his guest and give him a piece of tree with his initials on it. Johnson had to decline. He's serving a 120-year term in prisonl (Surely it wasn't for defacing the tree?)

To keep your trees and shrubs healthy, give Woodwinds a call at 924-3500. We are glad to be of servicel

Interesting Part-Time Position Open at Town Topics

Whether you're new to Princeton, or have lived here many years, here is a part-time job opening (three to four days a week) that will enable you to learn more about this unique town. TOWN TOPICS, Princeton's weekly newspaper, has a position open in its production department that involves a wide variety of duties related to putting a newspaper together.

These include copy editing and typesetting stories for publication, ad mark-up and paste-up, headline and caption writing. We'll teach you how to operate various computers. Of course, previous experience in newspaper work would be helpful, but it's definitely not necessary. The only skill one needs to qualify is good typing.

Our salary is competitive with other part-time jobs in this area. We also offer two weeks paid vacation after one year, Christmas bonus, sick days, and participation in an excellent profit-sharing plan, and last, but not least, the congenial atmosphere of a small office.

Bring an informal resume along and come in for an interview and a typing test. Call 924-2200 to set up an appointment.
